

Workshop: Digital Photography as Art

Event Date:

Sat, Oct 17, 2015

Allen Rokach, photographer

Designed for all photographers who want to improve their images of flowers, this workshop will teach you to create truly extraordinary digital photographs using both your digital camera and your computer. Master photographer Allen Rokach will help you understand the intricacies of your digital camera to produce the best possible images concentrating on creating photographs built around color, shape, line, texture and mood. Then during review sessions explore ways to fine-tune and enhance your images in creative ways using both "Rokach's Effect" and today's amazing but simple aftercapture applications. Please note: This 2-day workshop will introduce a number of state-of-the-art apps (including smart phones & tablets), designed to create unique images of flowers. The workshop includes time to review and critique participants' images and select the best images for printing. Bring your laptop for review sessions. A materials list can be found here. Please bring a lunch.
